

HOW TO TEXT

conquerandwin.com

Simplicity is key for effective texting with a woman you've just met. Guys make it more complicated than it needs to be, resulting in less replies and interest.

If you get good at conversation and approaching women, texting will never be an issue. Where most guys lose out is on connection building and attraction.

If she wasn't attracted when you met her, of course she's not going to meet for a date. Work on your social skills and confidence then you'll get more replies and dates. Focusing too much on text is just a distraction.

The Rules

- Send your first text the SAME DAY
- Set up a date with your first message using the template below.
- When she replies letting you know when she's available, be assertive and name the place and time to meet. Don't ask her if "she wants to", she's already told you when she's available so make it happen.

Text Template

"Hey (Name), it was good meeting you today. Let's grab a (coffee/drink) later this/next week, which day is good for you"

Notes

- There's no '?' and that's intentional in order to keep it more casual
- It's better to find out which days she's free initially because otherwise if she isn't free on the day you asked for, you'll now have to "chase" her, "Monday? Tuesday? Wednesday...."
- After getting a woman's number text your name right away. If you don't then add your name to the first message you send. "Hey X, this is X. It was good..."
